submitting a patent application. Participants were guided through the various stages of patent searches, drafting claims, and understanding patent laws. Thomas provided practical insights and examples from his professional experience, making the session highly engaging and informative. The interactive session allowed participants to ask questions and discuss specific scenarios, enhancing their understanding of the intricacies involved in patent filing.

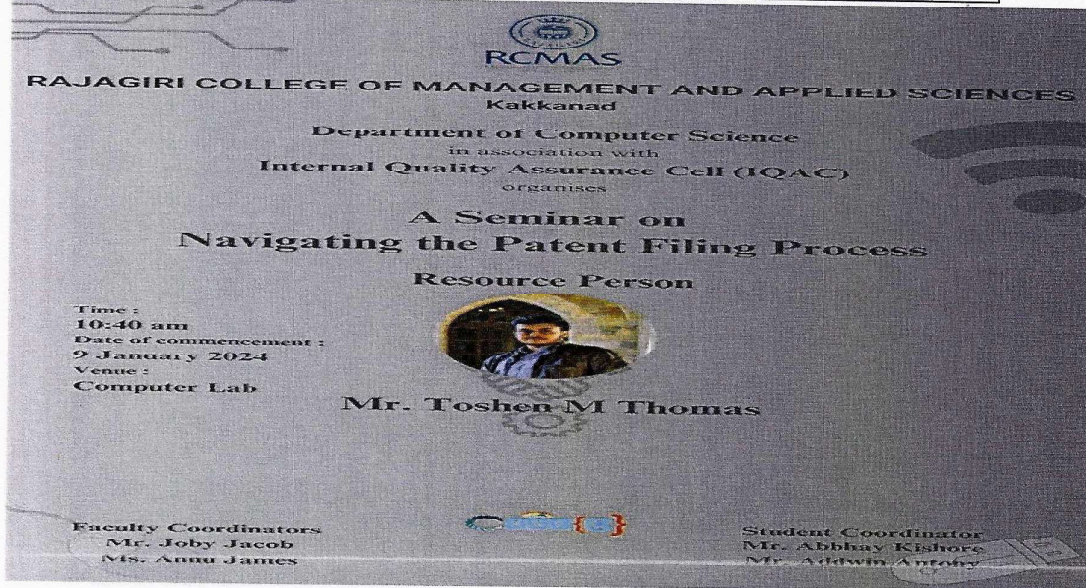

In conclusion, the seminar successfully achieved its objective of providing comprehensive knowledge about the patent filing process. Participants gained a deeper understanding of how to protect their innovations and navigate the legal landscape of intellectual property. Feedback from attendees was overwhelmingly positive, with many expressing appreciation for the clear and concise presentation by Toshen M Thomas. The seminar was deemed highly beneficial for individuals in the field of computer science, empowering them to confidently pursue patent filings and safeguard their intellectual contributions.
